Tax funds amounting to $1,065,910.98, representing the semi-annual collections recently brought to a close in Marion County, were distributed today from the office of County Auditor Earl L. Thomas.

The sum covers all general taxes collected for government and public service operations and payment of debt and interest. It includes $1,051,212.88 received in general taxes and special assessments and $14,698.10 in inheritance taxes.

Checks for the amounts due the various taxing subdivisions, including state, county, municipalities, townships and school districts, were being sent out today from the auditor's office.

The largest share of today's tax distribution went to schools of the city and county, the amount being $416,109.32. Other appropriations were as follows:

The county auditor's fee fund receives $6,151.36 and the treasurer's fee fund $5,580.10. This money remains in the county treasury for payment of general operating expenses.

The tax fund distributed at this time is less than the total for the same period last year, the amount at that time being $1,081,301.32.

CITY TO HAVE SOFT WATER IN SEVERAL DAYS

Company To Take Advantage of Phrase in Franchise, Whysall Says

TO IGNORE COUNCIL ACTION

Rate Will Be Increased to $18 Per Year When Service Is Started

Taking advantage of that phrase in its franchise with the city which provides that softened water "must be supplied on or before July 28th, 1928," and ignoring the stand taken by City Council Monday night in refusing to sanction the supplying of softened water before July 28, the Marion Water Co. would start its soft water service within the next few days, George Whysall, manager, announced today.

"I have known," Mr. Whysall said, "that the water could be turned in any time before July 28, but wished to cooperate with City Council and give it the credit of turning in the softened water."

Several Days Yet

It will be several days before the service will start, Mr. Whysall said. "We have some adjustments to make before we will be ready to produce softened water in sufficient quantities to meet the demand, but we will in all probabilities, be ready by Monday or Tuesday."

The franchise committee in submitting its report at the meeting of Council Monday night, gave no reason for refusing the request of the water company, simply stating that it did not recommend that the water be turned in before the date fixed by the franchise.

With the turning in of soft water the rate automatically will be increased to a minimum of $18 a year.

POLICE SILENT ON ERWIN DEATH PROBE

Officials Refuse To Comment on Activities in Connection with Case

Marion police today continued their investigation into the circumstances surrounding the death here early last month of Emmett C. Erwin, 23, which was reopened Tuesday when Mrs. Lada Fosnaugh, captive in the Wyandot County Jail, told officials of a fight in which Erwin engaged a short time before his death.

While the probe was being carried on quietly today under the direction of Police Chief James W. Thompson, officials refused to comment on the case.

Prosecutor Frank Wiseman, who with Chief Thompson and Capt. Ira Shrock, was called to Upper Sandusky Tuesday to check Mrs. Fosnaugh's story, stated today that in all probability the coroner's verdict of "death from pneumonia as the result of breathing gas fumes" will stand, unless officials are able to prove that Erwin was placed in his room where he was found in an unconscious state Jan. 7, last.

According to the story told officials by the woman Erwin and a number of companions had been hunting on Jan. 5 and that at the close of the hunt Erwin and Fred Ames, also a captive in the Wyandot County Jail, had a dispute which culminated with Ames striking Erwin over the head with a double-barreled shotgun.

The blow rendered Erwin unconscious and he remained in that state until the following morning, the woman is said to have told officials. On the morning of Jan. 6, the day before Erwin was found in his room on W. Center-st, he returned to Marion.

Police are checking his activities from the time he left the Fosnaugh residence, where the alleged fight is supposed to have taken place, up until the time his landlady found his unconscious form in his room beside a gas stove that had been turned on full blast.

Erwin died on the morning of Jan. 9 at City Hospital without regaining consciousness.

FILIPINOS WELCOME STIMSON TO ISLES

20,000 Persons Gather to Hear Inaugural Address of Governor-General

Manila, P. I., March 1—Escorted by a squadron of destroyers and 20 war planes, the liner President McKinley bearing Col. Henry L. Stimson, the new governor-general of the Philippine Islands, steamed into the Manila Harbor today.

In honor of Colonel Stimson a legal holiday had been declared and 20,000 people gathered at the historic Luneta to listen to the inaugural address of the new administration head of the islands.

"The attention of the Filipino people of the last generation has been concentrated on the political rather than the economic development," Governor General Stimson declared during his address. "But the Philippines today are possessed of political construction today with the foremost industrial nation of the world where organization methods in industry and the relations of labor and capital are more enlightened and fruitful than in any other country under the sun."

GEORGE REMUS SANE, PHYSICIANS DECLARE

Four Doctors Take Stand as Rebuttal to State Evidence

Lima, March 1—Taking the stand as rebuttal witnesses for George Remus four doctors—Sheley Munnugh, A. C. Adams, P. L. Tussing and C. L. Streit—today reiterated their previous testimony that Remus is sane. The quartet had observed Remus' reaction in court when he was "goaded" by Walter K. Siblald, attorney for the state and that his conduct strengthened their opinion he is sane.

Remus, in the present hearing before the court of appeals, is trying to obtain his freedom. He was sent to the Lima State Hospital for the criminal insane following his trial for the murder of his wife, Imogene, in Cincinnati, where a jury found him "not guilty on the sole ground of insanity."

March Stages Calm Entry Into Calendar of Months

MARCH, the month of proverbial storm and bluster, staged a calm and springlike entry in Marion today.

A slight temperature rise was recorded during the early morning hours giving no hint to the near threat of unfavorable weather.

After this preliminary gesture, the weatherman relented and dished up a bit of sunshine, following this with a promising forecast for the rest of the day.

As a consequence of the mild weather the community is a happy mood.

Like introduction, March, according to legend, will show its temper later on and enact a loonine getaway. But that remains to be seen. The official forecasters are making no predictions that far ahead.

For tonight, however, generally fair weather is promised with Friday "slightly warmer."

Yesterday the local government thermometer registered 41 and its highest point and last night dropped to a low of 24.

A year ago the temperature was about the same, the high being 38 and low 24.

Com. Charles E. Rosendahl said that the great ship had behaved perfectly and that he was entirely satisfied with her ability to make long flights.

The Los Angeles was anchored throughout the night to the mooring mast of the U. S. navy tender Patoka. She will remain at the same mooring tonight. Unless further reports of bad weather are received the dirigible will leave for Lakehurst, N. J., tomorrow morning.

HAYS SAYS SINCLAIR GAVE G. O. P. $260,000

Former Republican Chairman Testifies Before Senate Lands Committee

Washington, March 1—Harry F. Sinclair, lessor of the Teapot Dome oil field, gave the Republican National Committee $260,000 in Liberty Bonds in 1923, Will H. Hays, former chairman of the Republican National Committee, testified today before the Senate Public Lands Committee.

The Sinclair donation included a gift of $75,000, and a loan of $185,000, said Hays. Both sums were in government bonds.

Hays declared Sinclair was repaid $100,000 of the $185,000 loan so that the oil king's gifts totalled only $160,000, all in government bonds.

Whether the funds were from the Continental Trading Co. Hays said he did not know.

HOUSEWIVES ASKED TO HELP OFFICIALS

Police Seeking To Eliminate Objectionable Solicitors in House-to-House Canvass

Steps to control the nuisance which has arisen in connection with the drive of magazine solicitors, who work from house to house, are being planned by city officials, following complaints by women in various parts of the city as to the manner in which some of these solicitors conducted themselves.

Recently, it is said, two of the solicitors, working on N. State-st forced their way into several homes and made themselves generally obnoxious. The police are asking that women obtain a description of any of the solicitors who make themselves obnoxious and notify them at once.

Handicapped by the interstate commerce law which prevents the interference of city officials with the soliciting of magazine subscriptions, the police are faced with a difficult problem in controlling the situation unless they receive the co-operation of the housewives they say.

A peddlers ordinance passed by city council several years ago, makes it necessary for every solicitor or peddler to register at the office of the city clerk. In addition to his name and address, the registration blank contains a general description of the person.

OHIO PENS INCREASE 3,500 IN FIVE YEARS

Total Prison Population Now 8,000; Over 2,900 at Marysville

Columbus, March 1—Declaring that the aggregate population in four of Ohio's penal institutions, the penitentiary, the London Prison Farm, the Marysville Reformatory for Women and the Boys' Industrial School at Lancaster, had increased approximately 3,500 prisoners within the past five years was contained in a report submitted to Gov. Vic Donahey by Welfare Director John E. Harper. The total population of these four institutions today was 8,000 as against 4,500 in 1923, Harper said.

With an increase of 600 women prisoners since last June, the population at the Marysville Reformatory today was placed at 2,900.

An indication of the congestion at the penitentiary was found in Harper's report that 500 prisoners were sleeping in cots in the hospital, dormitories, pending completion of permanent cell blocks.

One cell block, recently completed, is filled to capacity with 576 prisoners, it was stated. Plans have been made, Harper told the governor, for the immediate erection of another cell block.

Doctor Found What is Best for Thin, Constipated People

W. B. Caldwell M D
AT AGE 83

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not any small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illness were usually of a minor nature—colds, fevers, headache, biliousness—and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of his 47 years' practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simple laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in his private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are being used a year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have gotten many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helped them when everything else failed.

Every drug store stells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home,—where many a time someone is sure to need it quickly.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

WITH THE STAR STAFF

A[illegible] state examiners of these inspections was viewed with no [illegible] several days small amount of apprehension by public officials and employes [illegible] excitement that [illegible] similar happening.

The general impression in the earlier years of the state inspection system, inaugurated about 25 years ago, was that the examiners were on the job to pick out every possible flaw and flaunt it before the public as evidence of official inefficiency and mismanagement.

Sometimes reports filed by the examiners were of that type and as a consequence the reputations of some perfectly honorable and honest local officials were more or less damaged.

Fairer Course

In recent years, however, the state examining bureau has followed a different and much fairer course. Although inspectors go over every item of public business with painstaking detail and by no means cover up any evidence of inefficiency or questionable procedure they are extremely careful in guarding against placing local officials in a false light.

If they find errors which are merely of a technical nature they call for corrections but do not advertise the mistakes to the public. Experience has shown that the public is inclined to misjudge and to magnify such errors.

Reports filed by examiners here in recent years have shown that public business in Marion County is transacted with commendable care and accuracy. The examiners have discovered mistakes, it is true, but almost without exception these errors have been wholly unintentional and called for no unusual criticism.

State examiners serve both the public and the officials. Their periodical inspection of the records and expenditure of public funds strictly in accordance with the law and also acts as a guide for those in charge of the offices.

Local officials say that the state bureau of inspection and supervision has accomplished more in the last 25 years in establishing efficiency in public business than all agencies employed during the many years previous to that time.

MATRIMONY has at least taught one Marion man a lesson and he is willing to pass the trick on to his fellowmen.

The other day a certain well known citizen of Marion stopped at the office and the talk turned to money and wives.

He pulled out a bill fold and extracted a five spot and two ones showing to the wife world that he had only seven dollars in his possession.

The rest of the thing is this. In another section of the fold he carried the rest of the money. The idea, he said, is this: when your wife asks you for money just pull out the bill fold and give her a little lecture on taking your last cent. At the same time exhibit the seven dollars. She will probably break into tears and you will be that much ahead. If she insists on taking the seven you can feel certain you saved about 15 or 20 bucks.

However, he forgot to mention some trick to prevent the wife from going through your pockets after a little game over at Pelhos.

MARION County has given the new dog license law a thorough test and has found that it yields beneficial results. At least that is what the record shows thus far.

Since more than four weeks ago when Dog Warden Dale Rhoads and his deputies started on their round checking up and listing the canine population, the county has been absolutely free of dog raids on sheep flocks.

During the same period, Crawford County, which adjoins Marion County on the north, reported that attacks by dogs had resulted in sheep losses amounting to $1,500.

Crawford County has a dog warden but the law has not been as rigidly enforced there as in Marion County, according to reports. No census was taken there, the entire task of keeping track of unlicensed canines being left to the warden.

The commissioners of Marion County believe that in taking the dog census and employing deputies to assist the warden in canvassing the entire territory they took a very wise step. Comparison of the records in Marion and Crawford counties for the last month appears to support that belief.

The period of more than four weeks without a single sheep loss has few equals in the history of Marion County. The fact that this is the season of the year when sheep-killing dogs are usually most active makes the record all the more remarkable.

While the fact that it came just at the time when the war on unlicensed dogs was at its peak may be merely a coincidence, county officials are not inclined to view it in that light.

They believe that the general rounding up of all stray dogs, which as a rule are of the sheep-killing variety, should be given credit.

Since he took charge of his new job last year, Warden Rhoads has impounded and killed more than 200 unlicensed dogs and approximately half of that number were taken capture in the last few weeks.

USE of bank checks as a means of obtaining easy money, either through forgery or some other lawless device, is by no means a rare or unusual occurrence.

This is revealed by local bankers following recent activities of a mysterious forger who is circulating around the state of Ohio obtaining traveling expenses by cashing bogus payroll checks drawn on the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

The system of paying by check is one of the greatest of modern conveniences and at the same time is one which provides clever crooks with a handy source of livelihood.

The bad checks are rarely presented to banks for payment. The forger or any other type of crook operating along that line is too wise to adopt that course. He knows that when he steps into a bank he not only has little chance of putting anything across but also faces danger of detection and arrest.

So he usually confines his activities to stores and other places of business. His game as a rule is to purchase a small amount of merchandise and offer the bogus check in payment. The check, of course, is for more than the amount of the purchase and if everything works out satisfactorily, he gets a substantial amount of change.

Merchants are anxious to sell goods and as a consequence are occasionally willing to take a chance with a check presented by a stranger. Now and then the venture is costly.

SAY BARRYMORE AND SELZNICK IN FIGHT

Reporters Unable to Reach Actor for His Version of Encounter

Hollywood, Cal., March 1—While the boulevard bubbled with exciting talk, occasioned by the disclosure of a fist duel between John Barrymore, romantic lover of stage and screen, and Myron Selznick, motion picture producer, efforts to reach Barrymore for his version of the encounter were unavailing early today.

The star was reported to be in Arrowhead Lake, a nearby resort.

Although Selznick, in revealing the fact that he and Barrymore had engaged in the exchange of blows on the Ambassador Hotel lawn last Saturday night, inferred that the actor had received the worst end of the fight, witnesses who were on the scene at the time, indicated today that both combatants shared honors equally.

The hostilities, according to Selznick, grew out of some remarks made by Barrymore in a hotel cottage, which he shares with his brother, Lionel. Selznick said that he took exception to the remarks and that Barrymore challenged him to fight, striking him several times and finally forcing him to accept the challenge reluctantly.

Selznick was entertaining friends at a supper party at the hotel, when the fight occurred.

MARRIAGES MAINTAIN LEAD OVER DIVORCES

The Marion county marriage license bureau maintained a comfortable lead over the divorce court in February, records at the courthouse showed today.

Twenty-one couples were licensed to wed, while 10 divorce suits were filed. The divorce total was considerably larger than the average of the last few months.

The 10 divorce actions constituted more than a fifth of the total number of new proceedings started in the court of common pleas. Suits of all classes during the month totalled 40.

NINETY YEAR OLD WAR VETERAN WINS BATTLE

Sykodoner With Its Marvelous Results Startles the Medical World.

Its Electro-Magnetic Principle Similar to New Fuelless Engine Piloted by Col. Lindbergh.

"I have helped win many a battle during the terrible struggle of the civil war," said Mr. Samuel C. Johnson, a veteran of the civil war, and oldest native born citizen of Marion, living at 1008 E. Center-st, Marion. "But the latest battle I won, was when my health broke down, and nothing would afford me relief. I do not fear death, but, I could not see why anyone should suffer, even at my extreme age. Hearing so much of that wonderful new treatment the Sykodoner, I called to see what it was all about. I am very glad I did so, for I can now again eat meat or anything I want. I do not have to get up so often during the night. I sleep well, my nerves quiet, and I again feel like enjoying life. I walk without a cane, and read without glasses. I go wherever I please, all alone. I have talked with others who have been taking Sykodoner treatments; and what it has done for them is nothing short of marvelous. I cannot say too much for it. I am sure no one can go wrong in taking advantage of it, while they may."

The Sykodoner, which is now being demonstrated in Marion, is an invention based on the wonderful new discovery of Prof. Otto Warburg, one of the world's most eminent biologists. It uses neither drugs, serum, surgery, baths, diet, manipulations, faith or superstition of any kind. It has proved so very resultful for many of Marion's representative citizens, in all kinds of ailments, as to be almost of unbelief. The proof is here, however. Come, let us tell you all about it.

She did all this, she relates, so that she and her husband could keep down expenses and pay for the farm of 50 acres, which they now own.

Turner, for whom charges was subject to frequent periods of moodiness and anger which finally made her so miserable and unhappy that she was finally forced to leave him. That was on Nov. 11, 1927 and since then they have been separated, the petition states.

GET SANDINO! CRY OVER NICARAGUA

Devil Dogs Redouble Efforts After Five U. S. Men Are Killed

torts had been made to save his life.

Private Curtis J. Mott, Trenton, Wash.

Corp. Cicero D. Austin, Crockett, Texas.

21 Now Dead

The latest ambush by Sandino's forces now brings the total number of marines killed since last May up to twenty-one.

The first word of the ambush was brought to Yali early Tuesday morning by two marines sent back by Lieutenant O'Day. The commanding officer at Yali promptly sent out a panel signal which Capt. Robert J. Archibald, a marine aviator, picked up while on daily patrol.

The news was brought here yesterday by marine aviators who flew above the survivors of the pack train, which was proceeding to Condega.

Reinforcements were rushed from Yali but in the meantime, Captain McNulty, commanding a detachment of 85 marines, going east from Condega over the same road on another mission, met O'Day's outfit and rendered assistance.

Had Feared Attack

O'Day's pack train left Esteli last week with supplies for the Yali detachment and was returning to Condega when attacked.

Machine gun fire from a farm house at the top of a hill near Darnili took the marine detachment entirely by surprise. The men were mowed down before they had a chance to find cover.

Just such an attack had long been feared at marine headquarters because it is impossible to protect such outfits from being ambushed in the mountainous regions through which pack trains supplying outlying detachments must pass.

The exact whereabouts of Sandino can only be guessed at. He was last reported seen going toward the river Coco, with his chief of staff, General Montolya, a Honduran, and 200 guerrillas in the middle of February.

COMPANY ACCEPTS CHILLICOTHE OFFER

No Adjustment To Be Made on Gas Rates, Officials Announce

M. A. Mackley, manager of the Marion office of The Logan Gas Co., is in receipt of a communication announcing that the company has accepted the gas rate ordinance passed by Chillicothe.

At the same time it was announced by the company that there would be no adjustment of rates which have been collected pending the settlement and the rates just agreed upon between the company and the city.

The new schedule of charges covers a five year period on the following basis: First two years, $1.10 for the first 2,000 cubic feet or less and 55 cents per thousand cubic feet thereafter; the third year the rate is $1.00 for the first 1,000 cubic feet or less and 60 cents net per thousand thereafter; the fourth and fifth years, $1.00 for the first 500 cubic feet or less and 60 cents per thousand thereafter.

Logan Gas officials point to the Chillicothe settlement as further evidence of their desire to settle the rate matters fairly and equitably with local city officials. They explain that Chillicothe was one of the few cities holding out during the last several years with their case before the Public Utilities Commission. Forty-seven cities and towns are now being served by this company at similar rates.

MUSIC COSTS $20,000,000 PER YEAR

Ignace Paderewski

Mme. Schumann Heink

Jascha Heifetz

AMERICANS spend $20,000,000 a year for concert and opera music of the highest type, Georges Engles, manager for several prominent concert artists, said recently.

But, he added, they are paying so much for the finest artists that good but lesser known musicians are facing their hardest times since the post-war slump.

The United States, said Engles, gives far greater financial support to good music than does any European nation. The country's 15 large symphony orchestras and the two principal opera companies, the Metropolitan and Chicago, receive about $6,000,000 annually.

The remainder of the money spent on music goes to individual artists. Summer concert orchestras and a few minor opera organizations.

Three individual artists alone, Paderewski, Heifetz and Schumann-Heink, have gross receipts of approximately $1,000,000 a year, Engles asserted.

"There are 17 artists in what is called the first grade box office group. Their gross receipts run up to three millions."

In addition to the trio named, this first group includes Rachmaninoff, Hofmann, Kreisler, Elman, Yehudi, Menuhin, Marion Talley, Jeritza, Rose Ponselle, John McCormack, Mary Garden, Galli-Curi, Chaliapin, Gigli, Schipa and Geraldine Farrar.

Despite their large revenues, the symphony orchestras are not self-supporting, and probably never will be. Each incurs a large deficit every year that is met by private guarantors.

VENGEANCE FEARED IN PITTSTON DEATHS

City Virtually Under Martial Law While Authorities Await Outbreak

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 1 — Vengeance.

One short word held the embattled mining community of Pittston in a grip of fear today. Authorities were openly apprehensive for the safety of officials of the United Mine Workers of America, fearing that friends of Alex Campbell and Peter Saudargas, slain insurgent unionists may seek the lives of others.

Pittston was virtually under martial law while authorities stood ready for the first outbreak of hostilities in the feud torn town.

Public gatherings are forbidden—the town waits hopefully for an answer from John L. Lewis to the appeal of Mayor William H. Gillespie that the mine union president come here to bring peace to the warring factions. Four men have been killed in the bitter factional strife, a fifth badly wounded, and a long list of bombings have resulted.

Some felt that Rinaldo Coppelini, district president of the unionists, is a marked man. His friends fear that attempts will be made on his life by a radical element among the miners. Coppelini, himself, however, refuses to leave the strife-torn area.

"My place is here," he said.

OFFICIALS AT MEET IN UPPER SANDUSKY

Three from Here Attend Taxation Session Called by State Commission

Three Marion County officials attended a district conference held in Upper Sandusky yesterday, called by the State Tax Commission for the purpose of discussing various questions relating to taxation and public finances.

The three from this county were Earl E. Thomas, auditor, James E. Messenger, treasurer and O. W. Kinnamon, chairman of the board of commissioners. These three officials constitute the county's board of tax revision.

Those attending the conference were members of the boards of revision of six counties and two representatives of the state tax commission. The state men, who conducted the discussions, were Anthony Krause, former Wyandot County auditor, and J. T. Edwards, former state senator. The meeting, held in the assembly room of the Wyandot County courthouse, lasted from 10 o'clock yesterday morning until after 3 o'clock.

One of the most important problems taken up was in regard to methods proposed for increasing personal property returns. During recent years, reports show, personal property tax valuations have not shown a satisfactory percentage of increase. It was indicated that changes in the system of assessment and appraisal may be recommended.

The meeting yesterday is one of a series being conducted throughout the state by the tax commission. The state has been divided into districts and a conference will be held in each district until the entire state has been covered.

Counties represented in yesterday's conference were Marion, Wyandot, Crawford, Hardin, Seneca and Hancock.

COMPLAINANT SAYS PROTEST IS GENERAL

Dr. A. M. Crane Declares Dispute Over Alley Is Not Personal Matter

With a view to correcting the impression that his efforts to have an alley connecting Duluth-av and Bellefontaine-av cleaned up is a personal fight, Dr. A. M. Crane, Girard-av, today issued a statement explaining that he simply was acting as agent for a large number of persons using the alley when he asked City Council Monday night to take action on his complaint.

"It is evident to those who use this alley," the statement reads," that at times it is practically impassable. Being the only driveway between Duluth and Bellefontaine-avs it is used a great deal.

"The ruts and mud are so deep that machines can scarcely get through. Furthermore the driveway is so encroached upon by the properties adjoining that vehicles can not pass without crossing the grass adjoining the drive.

"I stated to City Council that ashes were being thrown into the alley and that an iron bar had been driven into the alley three feet from the lot line, making it dangerous to drive through the alley at night. Stones also have been piled in the alley.

"I desire to state that I did not appear before Council to voice a personal complaint but represented others of my neighbors, who joined in the appeal to have the alley cleaned up. This same complaint has been carried to city officials by others than myself. Officials have promised relief.

"Furthermore last Tuesday city teamsters complained to parties adjoining the alley that they could not drive in to get the ashes and rubbish, and had to carry it from the rear of the lots to the street.

"In view of the fact that I was joined in my complaint to City Council by my neighbors and protests have been turned in to city officials from other sources I can see no reason why my appeal to council should be construed as a personal matter."

BURTON LEADS FIGHT TO BAN LAME DUCKS

House To Bring White-Norris Amendment Up for Vote Tuesday

Washington, March 1—Rep. Theodore Burton, Republican, of Ohio, one of the conservative leaders of the House, today was named to lead the fight for the adoption of the White-Norris constitutional amendment to abolish "lame duck" sessions of Congress.

Backers of the measure hailed Burton's acceptance of the post with enthusiasm, declaring that it would answer the complaint of "railroading" which has been raised against the measure.

After a five-year intermittent fight over the proposal, House leaders have agreed to bring it up for a vote next Tuesday.

The amendment proposed by Representative White, Republican, of Kansas, probably will be pushed ahead of the resolution of Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, which already has passed the Senate. Differences would be worked out in conference committees.

The White resolution changes the date of presidential inaugurations from March to Jan. 21, and would call Congress into session on Jan. 4 each year, instead of the first Monday in December. It continues the short session principle, by providing that sessions in even-numbered years would end on May 4.

Impermanency of Human Affairs.

Tuhri de Thulstrup, one of the famous illustrators of the nineteenth century—a man whose illustrations of the funeral of General Grant and of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee in the pages of Harper's Weekly brought him thousands of followers, and whose name carries with it the title of a Swedish baronet—sat in the Home for Old Men and Aged Couples in New York, one day last week, for a number of photographs.

There was nothing unusual that, at eighty, he sat in the home for he had been sitting there for the past seven years, but it was somewhat unusual that he graciously sat before the camera of a press photographer for it was the camera which sent this man whose achievements in the world of art are listed in Who's Who to the New York home for the aged, for the camera took away the occupation of de Thulstrup just as it did those of many staff artists on the daily and weekly papers of the land. How thoroughly the occupation of the illustrator has gone must be realized by newspaper readers when the recall that it has been years since they have seen such illustrations outside of magazine or book pages.

We do not cite the case of de Thulstrup because he bewails his fate or rails against the camera, but rather to bring out the lack of quality of permanency in the affairs of this life. The work of the illustrator is far from the only one which has made way for something else. There is an almost endless list of occupations of the past for which there is no call today—occupations which have fallen before the ruthless march of progress. They were here yesterday, they are gone today. The occupation which today may be thought to have a long future may be gone tomorrow. It may be our neighbor's occupation, or our own. No one can tell in this age of inventive genius what the future has in store.

Suppose, by way of illustration, the ruthless generator of which we have been reading the last few days proves to be practical and dependable. The revolution such a generator will work in the world of industry in the world of transportation, in the home, and in the obliteration of almost countless occupations is beyond human contemplation. The change which such a generator—a generator which takes its energy from the magnetic currents of the air—will work in the affairs of life is simply beyond the vision of humanity.

With such discoveries being made, no occupation of today may be credited with the possession of the quality of permanency. Any occupation may be thrust into the limbo of the past just as has been that of this once-famous illustrator, de Thulstrup.

France To Hold Chambord.

The procureur general of France has rendered an expert opinion upon which the Bourbon pretender is expected to the very near future declare that he intends to occupy the throne of his great ancestor, Henry of Chambord and that to be crowned king of France will be a thing in progress since the death of the Duke of Bourbon-Parme.

In 1870 a French court decided that upon reaching the age of majority Prince Elie de Bourbon-Parme would become former Empress Zita and the property of Italians and sacred. The French government officials the decision of the "Supreme court," and then with typical French politeness added that the chateau and property would remain "the property of the World" as the property of an alien enemy. Mr. Elie de Bourbon-Parme will have to look elsewhere for reparation for his property that fell to France.

Chambord, which is the largest and most spectacular of the chateaux of the Loire country, is a French Renaissance combination of the beautiful and the hideously ugly—a maze, pile of gray stone, dormer windows, pinnacles, gables, roofs, chimneys and gargoyles. It contains 440 rooms, and the adjoining stables will accommodate 1,200 horses. The central one of the six enormous towers, each of which is over 200 in diameter, contains a wonderfully beautiful double staircase which permits two sets of persons to ascend or descend without meeting, and extends from the ground floor to the open lantern which surmounts the tower, from which the ladies of the court could watch the king and his courtiers hunt in the great park nearby, which is twenty-four miles around and surrounded by a high and thick stone wall.

Francis I is said to have selected the sandy waste in which the chateau is located because of the fact that the Countess de Thoury lived nearby, she, as a well-known work of fiction states, "having been one of the loves of that oft-loving king." It was built by Francis as a hunting lodge and finally became his favorite residence. Later it was somewhat enlarged by a successor, and in time became the property of the Count of Chambord, and it still houses the superb carriages in which he and his immediate followers planned to drive to his coronation and the bed in which he expected to sleep as the king of France. A day or two before the time set for his coronation, the matter of religious belief came up, and he never rode in his resplendent carriage or slept in the regal bed.

For centuries, it may be said in passing, religious beliefs have had great influence, one way or the other, in the political history of the world, and it is manifest that they are not without influence still, even here in our own land, where freedom in them is guaranteed by our basic law.

But to get back to Chambord: the French procureur general decides that Prince Elie de Bourbon-Parme would be the owner of Chambord were he a Frenchman, but that, as he is not, it is the property of France. "Shylock" America is returning the property of alien enemies. France gives up nothing upon which it gets its hands, unless compelled so to do by policy or force.

Daniel Gran, who in 1915 with a cash capital of $200 moved onto the farm made famous by "Vandermark's Folly" and two years ago paid $18,000 in cash for an apartment-house in St. Louis, has sold out his farm belongings and retired with a comfortable fortune at sixty. He must have put in his time farming instead of agitating.

Replying to a recent charge by former Governor Gifford Pinchot that he was a "bitter enemy of the Roosevelt conservation policy and an opponent of federal action and a lobbyist for hydropower," Secretary Hoover, of the Department of Commerce, wrote the former governor that he is the "bitterest relic of the country," he, Pinchot, should have his "keeper lead you to a thistle patch," adding that his idea of a purposely useless thing is to waste time on Gifford Pinchot." HIGH TIME TO LET THERE BE LIGHT.

On Just What Food?

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Recently I was much amused by a letter sent to each member of the United States senate by Mrs. Mary A. Bradley, director of the Grace Dodge hotel in Washington. It was headed, "Dietary Don'ts for Statesmen."

In the letter it was said:

"Senators are regarded as human beings. Notwithstanding party symbols, therefore, you must dine as a member of the human family. No Republican eats like an elephant, I hope, nor do Democrats dine like donkeys. And though one may hide one's head in the sand during passing political storms, that doesn't make one an ostrich."

Then follows a list of "Dietary Don'ts for Statesmen." The senator is admonished: "If you care for a good constitution—and you have taken an oath to defend the constitution—it is to be hoped you will do what you can to observe them."

These rules are so good I want you to read them. They will help to keep you well, just as they will help to keep the senators well if they observe them—which I fear they will not. Here are the rules:

1. Don't start a long speech immediately after eating. Wait an hour. It will be a better speech.

2. Don't bolt your meals. It doesn't pay. Undigested food may mean undigested legislation.

3. Don't eat meat more than once a day. Eat fish, lamb and chicken oftener than beef and pork.

4. Don't eat excessively of starchy or acid-forming foods, such as pastry and puddings.

5. Don't fail to eat fresh vegetables with your heavy meal of the day—and fruit for breakfast and luncheon.

6. Don't drink coffee, tea or other stimulants as a substitute for nourishing food or to "keep going."

7. Don't starve. Don't "stuff." One is as bad as the other in its physical effect. Eat simply and moderately.

8. Don't overload your stomach with aristocratic foods. A democratic diet is safest, even for a Republican.

9. Don't imagine a daily ride or round of golf will offset the results of improper eating. It won't.

10. Don't except to stay in the senate unless you safeguard your health. Physical and political virility are allied.

Why not apply these rules to your own manner of eating? Whether you are statesmen, doctor, lawyer, preacher, banker, barber, manicurist or stenographer, they are good rules. Their observance will prolong the life of any one who follows them.

Vagrant Verse.

AN UNNAMED CATHEDRAL.

Beyond where Brussels's spires do rise
Majestic class stand mile on mile
Like myriad columns built to bear
An ancient giant cathedral pile.

The leafy naves are honeycombed
With vaultings of a fairer plan
Than all the tracery in stone
Conceived in mind and heart of man.

Those chairs, moss-grown, for dryad's use,
Green tapestries and emerald rare
Enthralled, I hungered in the wood
And found earth's beauty in its prime.

A primal chant that bridged years
Then through the green a silence broke
And spread from out its every leaf
Upon my head its soothing spell.

Editorial Opinion.

THE FAILURE THAT HELPED.

It is a matter of real regret that the first Wright aeroplane should not find its final resting place in this country. We had hoped that the Smithsonian institution would modify its partisanship in behalf of the Langley machine sufficiently to satisfy the proper criticism made by Orville Wright. But if the machine is to go abroad, no one will deny that the South Kensington institution is well chosen, for here repose the most complete collection of noted machines, historic or otherwise, yet gathered in the world. What our own Smithsonian lacks its English equivalent gains and, as it happens, we owe the whole Smithsonian to the generosity of an Englishman.

What is really regrettable about the incident is that controversy should arise at all, for surely there is ample honor for everybody, and certainly no one man deserves all of it. The idea of the aeroplane undoubtedly occurred to Leonardo da Vinci and probably to a thousand others between the fifteenth century and the nineteenth. What was probably the first actual flight in a power-driven aeroplane was a few yards long and was made by accident.

In the early '90s Mr. Hiram Maxim was experimenting at Bexley Heath, in England, with an aeroplane running on a track. Fixed above the rails of this track were two other rails to hold down the wheels of the craft, so that it might lift and strain against them, but could not sail off into air. One day one of these upper guard rails broke while the machine was running. The craft escaped and started into the air. There were two passengers—Mr. Harry Hearse and Mr. Edward R. Hewitt, the latter now a prominent engineer in New York City. Mr. Hearse was at the throttle. He shut off the power; the craft halted, tilted, crashed to the ground. Had he opened the throttle instead of closing it engineering might have lost two brilliant young recruits. On the other hand, the first successful aeroplane flight might have happened then and there.

Maxim's machine was damaged. His backers refused further support. The craft was not rebuilt. Perhaps it did not deserve to be, for it had many disadvantages. Its twin steam engines, although marvels of efficiency, were inferior to the internal combustion engines just then being perfected. It lacked the principle of wing warping, which was perhaps the greatest single contribution of the Wrights. To Bexley Heath in those days had come Professor Octave Chanute, whom Maxim and Hewitt taught practical things about aircraft and who contributed useful mathematical theories of his own. Back in America, Professor Chanute, himself too old to fly, gave to the Wright brothers the help which they have since acknowledged. Meanwhile Langley, at the Smithsonian, was also in correspondence with Maxim, drawing much, it can not be doubted, from that fruitful source.

Maxim failed; Langley failed; Chanute tried only by proxy; the Wrights succeeded. All those who failed helped. All deserve credit; especially Maxim, who was the first to try.—New York Herald Tribune.

A FAITHFUL WORKER REWARDED.

One day the editor of the Washington Daily News remarked to Secretary Hoover that he was tired of hearing government workers attacked as "clock-watchers and drones." Mr. Hoover agreed with him. The upshot of the interview was a prize offered by the newspaper to the federal employe most on the job.

The judges, John Hays Hammond and Edward Keating, awarded the prize to Miss Anna E. Black, who has been in charge of the United States civil service commission's bureau of information for over twenty years:

"She influences the lives of more persons than does any other employe on the government roll. Ninety thousand men and women, more than the entire personnel of the Washington service, visit her annually. She draws out the essential facts about their experience and suggests the positions they can best fill and how to get them."

It appears that Miss Black came to Washington in 1891, and so has served under seven administrations, doing her work "with promptness and quiet efficiency." In spite of this record of long and faithful public service she gets only $2,300 a year, but that is probably liberal as government standards go. There are thousands like her in the federal service, only they don't make much of a dent on the public ear.—New York Times.

To Get Quick Action.

The next time trouble breaks out in Central America the government should send Charles Lindbergh or Charles Evans Hughes, or both of them as a matter is serious.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Voice of Experience?

According to a medical theory, dark circles under the eyes may be due to digestive troubles. In domestic circles they may also be due to a night alibi.—London Punch.

What! Real Actors?

Many of the new plays have actors as characters. In this way the managers are sure of getting actors who can act their parts.—New York Herald Tribune.

Schaffner-Queen Co. Plans Formal Opening of Funeral Home

Public Reception to be Held March 2, 3 and 4 to Inspect Modern Quarters

Three-Story Brick Structure on E. Center-st, for Many Years Considered One of City's Finest Residence Properties, Converted into Parlors

The new funeral home of the Schaffner-Queen Co., located at 300 E. Center-st, will be formally opened this month, when three days are to be devoted to reception of the general public and visitors will be given an opportunity to inspect the premises.

Dates for the opening and reception are March 2, 3 and 4.

Although the company moved into its new quarters on Dec. 18, plans for a public inspection were delayed until all remodeling and improvement work on the building was completed. This point has been attained and officials of the company are prepared to have citizens of Marion and surrounding territory inspect what is generally conceded to be one of the largest and most completely equipped funeral homes in Ohio.

Three-Story Structure

The building, a three-story structure which was originally the residence of T. S. Cummin and later became the home of Henry Barnhart, one of the founders of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., was purchased from the Barnhart family last year by the Schaffner-Queen Co.

Although the general arrangement and design of the building throughout made it ideal for use as a funeral home, it was improved and extensively remodeled throughout in order to conform to plans of the Schaffner-Queen Co. The improvement program included both building and grounds, a complete driveway system being provided on the spacious tract of land on which the home stands.

136 Feet Frontage

The site has a frontage of 136 feet on Center-st and extends back to the north 440 feet.

The driveways provide parking space for 75 automobiles, assuring ample accommodations for funeral service transportation. In addition there is a large space at the rear of the grounds where many more cars may be parked in an emergency.

Outside improvements also included construction of a brick and concrete garage at the north end of the west driveway. This new structure and a large barn originally located on the property to such housing facilities for the company's motor equipment. The equipment consists of two funeral cars, an invalid car, an ambulance and three family passenger cars.

Colonial Effect

One of the outstanding remodeling features in rearranging the home was the construction of a concrete porch along the front, with a row of pillars 24 feet in height giving the exterior an impressive colonial effect. The entire exterior of the building was repainted.

New furnishings and light fixtures have been installed throughout the entire home. Walls were redecorated and rich, heavy floor coverings round out an arrangement which is beautiful and artistic in all of its details.

Every feature of the planning, worked out as the result of careful study and investigation by officers and employes of the Schaffner-Queen Co., is designed to assure convenience and facility of service.

Front Entrance

Entrance to the home from the front on Center-st is through a large double doorway, which leads into a spacious hallway. At the left of the entrance is a reception room and immediately north of this room is the company's office. Entrance to the office is from the west of the building.

At the right of the hallway is the service room or chapel, which has a seating capacity for more than 100 persons. The entire first floor of the building is so arranged that seating accommodations can be provided for 200 additional persons, wide archways between the different rooms and the hall furnishing this convenience.

Singers and musicians taking part in funeral services will be stationed on a balcony at the head of a wide stairway which leads to the second floor.

Crystal Chandeliers

All lighting fixtures in the downstairs rooms are crystal chandeliers imported from Czecho-Slovakia.

Workrooms for embalmers are located at the rear of the building and are provided with every modern convenience.

The second floor is used entirely as residence quarters for Harold F. Denzer, chief embalmer and superintendent of the home and his family.

On the third floor are four large showrooms where caskets and other burial supplies are displayed.

An electric automatic elevator, equipped with all modern safety devices operates between the basement and third floor.

The basement extends under the entire building, providing space for a laundry, heating equipment and fuel storage. The building is heated by two hot air furnaces.

Furniture and floor coverings used throughout the home came from the H. Schaffner Co. Remodeling and improvement work on the building was in charge of the following firms:

Crock & McPeck, general contractors; Probst Brothers, plumbing; Acme Decorating Co., outside painting; Charles Raymond, interior painting and decorating; Van Atta Hardware Co., crystal light fixtures; United Electric Supply Co., other lighting equipment.

Frank Schaffner, Head

The Schaffner-Queen Co., organized in February of last year to take over the undertaking branch of the H. Schaffner Co. business, is headed by Frank Schaffner as president. He and Asa Queen as secretary-treasurer are the two chief executive officers. Willard Schaffner is vice president. These officers, with John H. Bartram and Robert Schreffler comprise the board of directors.

Harold F. Denzer is chief embalmer and Thomas J. Woodcock and Earnest L. Cooper assistants.

Souvenirs Provided

Each person visiting the new funeral home while the three-day opening and reception is in progress will receive a souvenir booklet containing a history of the Schaffner undertaking business from its inception in 1866 to its present management under the Schaffner-Queen Co.

Attractively illustrated with photographs of those who have been instrumental in development of the business and also pictures of the new home, the booklet will be of exceptional interest as the record of one of Marion's pioneer business institutions.

This is one of the oldest undertaking concerns in Ohio, only four or five in the state having been in business for the same length of time.

Although 1866 is given as the first year of its operations, the Schaffner name has been identified with the undertaking and furniture business for a considerably longer period.

Started in 1850

Henry Schaffner, the founder, began work as an undertaker here in 1850, when he entered the employ of Samuel Salter. While working for Mr. Salter, he performed service in helping care for the dead in the historic cholera epidemic which ravaged this section of the state in 1854.

In 1866 Mr. Schaffner became associated with William Fies and Albert Dreyer in a furniture and undertaking firm known as Fies, Schaffner & Dreyer. This was really the beginning of the business now owned by the Schaffner-Queen Co.

At the end of 11 years this firm was dissolved and Mr. Schaffner went into the manufacture of furniture, doing this exclusively for five years.

Frank Schaffner, his son and now president of the Schaffner-Queen Co., entered his father's employ in 1877. He has been actively connected with the business since that time.

Opens Store in 1880

In 1880 the elder Schaffner opened a retail furniture store in the room on E. Center-st now occupied by the C. F. Smith clothing store. Two years later the undertaking business was added and that same year Mr. Schaffner moved to 140 S. Main-st. Shortly afterward the business was transferred to 182 S. Main-st, where it remained until last December, when the Schaffner-Queen Co. moved to its new funeral home on E. Center-st.

The business was owned entirely by Henry Schaffner until his death in 1907. He was active in its management until the time of his last illness. His son Frank assisted him.

Following the founder's death, the H. Schaffner Co. was organized and continued operation of both the undertaking and furniture business until the Schaffner-Queen Co. took charge of the undertaking branch on March 1 of last year.

Asa Queen, secretary-treasurer of the new company, was the first person outside of the Schaffner family to acquire an interest in the business.

FOREIGN AUTHORS TA PAY TAX ON ALL ROYALTIES

London—Foreign authors and playwrights whose works are produced in Britain will, in future, have to pay 20 per cent of their royalties to the British Exchequer.

This is the edict of Somerset House, headquarters of the British Taxation system, which has just sent out a letter to publishers explaining that this payment will have to be made under the finance Act of 1927.

Most British opinion is in favor of this new impost.

National Drive to Teach Children Safety First Making Fast Progress

Dan Beard, beloved leader of the Boy Scouts of America, seen with the son and daughter of "Ad" Carter, famous cartoonist, pictured at the right. The men have joined hands in organizing a national "Just Kids" Safety Club, hoping to cut down the terrific death toll of children. Inset shows one of Carter's characters admonishing his playmates by quoting the club's slogan.

"REMEMBER to look up an' down before you cross the street." That's the slogan adopted by a new organization founded by "Ad" Carter, New York cartoonist, who specializes in the doings of Liddies, and backed up by Dan Beard, a leading factor in the affairs of the Boy Scouts of America.

Together they are are enrolling thousands of boys and girls in the "Just Kids" Safety Club, and the movement is spreading like wildfire all over the country, because—

It's the first big concerted effort made by anyone to preach the gospel of safety first to the kiddies—

To make the determined battle upon the thousands of annual fatalities among children in accidents.

Cartoonist Carter knows boys and girls as few humans know them. His work shows that. He has a following among the youngsters that can't even be estimated throughout the country.

Big Death Toll

And the reason for his circular success is that he not only understands them, but is able to see things from their angle.

Loving children as he does, Carter often pondered over the question of cutting down the appalling death toll. And finally he evolved the idea of enrolling as many youngsters as possible into a safety first organization, and teaching them a few simple things that would save them from being accident victims.

Dan Beard at once saw the immense good that such propaganda could effect and wholeheartedly gave his efforts to the movement.

In discussing the situation and making a plea for parents to interest their sons and daughters in the campaign, Mr. Beard has this say:

"The reason I advocate woodcraft, outdoor work and play for children is because such occupations sharpen their wits, keep up their fine senses, make the young folks alert, observant and self-reliant.

"These qualities are dangerous to acquire by experience in city life, for after a boy or girl is hit by an automobile or run over by a motor truck the story is usually finished.

Asks Conservation

"Therefore I am hoping in sympathy with any method of training which will tend to lessen the really terrible danger young people run when playing with or on the sidewalks and when crossing the streets of the cities of today.

"The conservation of our young people is the conservation of the nation. Sincerely, the 'Just Kids' safety Club."

For 9 Years Gas Ruined Her Sleep

"I had stomach trouble 9 years, and gas made me restless and nervous. Adlerika helped me so I can eat and sleep good."—Mrs. E. Tenchstone.

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, saline, etc., known as Adlerika, has a most surprising DOUBLE action. First, it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes foul matter that often poisoned the system for months. Second, Adlerika clears all GAS and sourness from stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And in addition, Adlerika removes metabolic poisons which cause nervitis, rheumatism, etc.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, writes: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria and fungi."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Pockett: "After using Adlerika I feel better than for 20 years. Actual impurities were eliminated."

It will astonish you the great amounts of poisonous matter Adlerika brings out—matter you would never believe was in your system. In chronic constipation, gas bloating, sour stomach and sick headache, just ONE spoonful Adlerika brings wonderful relief. At leading druggists. Sold in Marion by Heeter & Cooper and other druggists. —Adv.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

"BRUNETTES are more emotional than blondes," declares a psychologist.

And THAT explains why blondes are preferred by a lot of gentlemen!

The one thing that no man can stand, is to be "cooled" over. A blonde is easy on the nerves and soothing to the spirit. Brunettes are stimulating but blondes are COMFORTABLE!

It is the volcanic quality of the brunette nature, which MUST erupt now and then, that frightens a man.

It is not the yellow hair, but the purring, kitten-like blonde temperament that appeals to men. Lots of men may admire flashing dark eyes and midnight hair. But if a brunette wants to be LOVED, she must bloudine her "temperament" down to the roots!

The three things a man values most in this world are his peace of mind, his freedom and his comfort!

A man who is married to a brunette temperament never knows, when he comes home evenings, whether he is going to be met with a flaming kiss, a shower of tears or a cold blast of reproach. But a blonde is always like nice May weather—most comfortably tepid.

Blondes are tender and cool-headed; brunettes are intense and warm-hearted. Blondes like to pet and be petted; brunettes want to adore and be adored.

A brunette wants to be not only the leading lady in a man's life, but the whole ensemble; to devour him with attentions, devotion and coodling. But a blonde is content to let George do most of the loving.

A brunette is high-strung, sensitive and sometimes jealous. But, as long as a blonde is made comfortable, she prefers to shut her eyes and go on purring. The blonde temperament is the placid temperament of the pet cat, which accepts with perfect equanimity all the cream and the petting, never cries for "more love," and never embarrasses a man by returning his affection with a deluge of emotion. Some brunettes are born with a blonde temperament—but no blonde was ever born with a brunette temperament.

A brunette loves to dramatize things an dis always staging a scene; and a man will run from a scene as a cat runs from a pail of water. But a blonde can curl up and BE STILL!

All the women of history, who have been deserted or betrayed by men, have been either brunettes or red-headed, from Cleopatra and Salome, down. But Helen of Troy must have been a blonde. For no matter what a blonde may DO, the men she has deceived are always delighted to have her around, again.

A man's ideal woman would probably be one with a brunette mind and heart and a blonde temperament. If you can't be a blonde, blondine your temperament! But do it with prayer—not peroxide!

Then, when Scarface's report came in, the authorities no doubt concluded, and rightly so it now seems, that the two idols were at the bottom of the whole affair. They knew these had been sent to my father at Patua, and—I am of course assuming this now, though I do not think from what followed that there is the slightest doubt about it—the code message they sent to your brother, because he was an officer in the secret service who happened to be then actually on a voyage that would take him to Patua, contained instructions to investigate the case. The night the Mootah reached Patua, bringing the mail which contained a letter and the idols from Scarface, and another letter from a neighbor of my uncle giving an account of what was known to have transpired at Kalawa, our bungalow was broken into, and, though I had a bit of a fight over it, the thieves, or so I thought then, stole both the idols. It was too dark to see who the thieves were, though I knew they were not Europeans."

He paused a moment, and smiled a little drearily. She did not seem to be giving him very enthusiastic attention—at least she had half turned her back, and he could not see her face ...

"I am afraid I am taking too long," he said. "There was an old feud between Hsi Yan and my uncle, which included my father and Captain Scarface. It was rather apparent then, that we had to deal with Chinamen, and, for obvious reasons which I will not go into, that the thieves had come to Patua on the Mootah. I did not know who they were; but if I was to have any chance of catching them, I could not first arouse their suspicions and so put them on their guard. So I took the Alita, went to Tahiola, reboarded the Mootah as Mr. Mercer. I discovered the two Chinamen on board, who I have tried to make you believe really existed, and I disposed of—but not until after your brother's death, that they had got only one of the idols that night at Patua—and that your brother had got the other at the same time."

She whirled suddenly around upon him.

"My brother! At Patua!" she exclaimed.

"Yes," he said. "So Chen-shu, the leader of the Chinamen, told me when he thought he had me at his mercy and thought he was having me to go down with the Mootah. Your brother had evidently shadowed the Chinamen to our bungalow, and in the darkness and the fight that followed, managed to get one of the idols away from them. But they, in their turn, had been unable to identify your brother. It was not until the night of the wreck that they were able to do so by means of what Chen-shu called the 'piece of torn garment' that had been left in one of their hands during the fight. It was a man by the name of Won Fo who killed your brother."

He paused again, thrust the idol into his pocket, and produced a cigaret.

"May I smoke?" he asked.

She gave a start of ...

"If what I have said is true," he said quietly, "you can see the danger you would be in if the idol remained in your possession. I do not know what the significance of that number is any more than you do, but they know you had the idol when you left the Mongolah, for they searched both your brother and myself, and they will go to any length to get it. I have reason to be almost certain that Chen-shu and his followers have found a means of getting back to Singapore, therefore it is not safe for you to go there at present. They must first be made to know that you have not got the idol any more—and, even without your permission, I am going to make it my business to see that not the slightest doubt of that fact remains in their minds. I think that is all. Miss Lisle. Ashore here, you will hear the story of Hs Yan's attack on my uncle's house from dozens of people who could have no reason for telling you anything but the truth, and in due time I hope you will be able to verify from the authorities themselves what I have suggested as the reason and the meaning of the code message your brother received. And you need give yourself no anxiety about your stay here in Kalawa. You will not be taken anywhere against your will. You will meet Mr and Mrs. Crowley in public, and, safeguarded by the presence of probably the whole population of Kalawa, you will be able to form your own opinion of them. They will come down to the beach, and, because they are friends of mine, you lose some ulterior purpose on my part or theirs, then you are free to choose for yourself any other of the white residents with whom you would prefer to stay."

She was twisting her hands together now, looking at him from under knitted brows.

"You mean that?"

"I mean that!"

"Yes," he said.

"And you?" she demanded. "What are you going to do in Singapore?"

"Three things—I hope," he said. "To divert the attention of these devils from you, to make them answer to the last man for the killing of my uncle as I swore to my father I would do; and to bring back proof to you that my hands are clean."

She said nothing, but the color was coming and going rapidly in her face now.

"We will be dropping anchor presently," he said. "I am afraid you have not much packing to do. It has been a miserable trip for you. But if you have any preparations to make before going ashore, I would suggest that you make them now."

"Yes," she said mechanically, and turning, started down the companionway—but halfway to the bottom she paused and faced him slowly. And now her voice choked suddenly as she spoke again. "Either I have treated you more shamefully than any man was ever treated before," she said; "or else you are so crafty and monstrous a fiend that no punishment in this world would ever expiate your sins!"

Taken aback, Bob Kingsley made no answer and the next instant she had disappeared from sight.

Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

Mary Faces Noel Vertizen

IT did not take me long, running at the pace I set myself to come close enough to Mary and Marion and to hear their voices. They were chattering like the children they really are, and Junior's part of their colloquy was no whit younger than theirs.

"Beat you that time," Mary was crowing, and my thoughts went back to the Summer when she first visited the farm and lorded it over Marion.

"So did I," Junior struck in. "Marion you were booby this trip."

"That's what I was, honey," Marion said laughingly, while I knowing something of the girl's athletic prowess at school, guessed that she purposely had been last in the race.

"I never was much good at running," she went on, "but I can climb like what's one of those things which jump up the mountain sides?"

"Oh! I know!" Junior squealed excitedly. "I've got a picture of one in my animal book. It's a chamois."

"That's it," Marion laughed. "I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll stump you both to a climb up that dune. I'll bet I get there first."

"You're on," Mary said, and I wondered if in the diversion of the race she had forgotten that Noel Vertizen was standing not far from the dune which Marion had indicated. The strains of his violin were still floating out over the water, but I knew that when we should hear the climbers, his music would cease, and he would steal forward, hoping that I had kept my promise to him.

"I'll bet I beat you both," Junior boasted valiantly, but when they had ranged themselves and given a signal agreed upon, Mary's rush carried her far ahead of the others. Again I bowed to Marion's strategy, for when she reached the top a little behind Junior, Mary had forgotten everything else in the childish triumph of winning.

"Thought you were a chamois!" she laughed. "You'd be a card on a mountainside!"

"I guess that's right," Marion agreed with a readiness so utterly foreign to her that I wondered Mary was not suspicious. "But isn't it lovely up here? Doesn't the camp fire look funny down? It's so far away that we can't hear them talking. Come on. There's a place over here where you can see the moon rise sooner than at any other spot around here. It's sort of hard walking, though, if you're not used to it."

There was a subtle change in her voice which Mary answered.

"Lead!" she exclaimed. "What's that? Go on if you know the way. I'll come right behind you!"

"Come, Junior," Marion said. "Take hold of my hand and lead me. You know this place better than anybody."

"You bet your boots I do," my son returned with vibrant pride in his tone, and the little procession started, walking, as I realized with a little catch in my throat, straight toward the spot where Noel Vertizen was standing, sending out strains of music which I knew he was hoping would plead his cause with the girl who so unaccountably had refused to see him when he had called at the farmhouse.

Silently I stole behind them, realizing after a minute that the song Noel was playing had ended and that he had not begun another. I felt the silence catch my throat. Then dimly I saw Noel's figure outlined against the dune, and saw Marion, and Junior swerve to one side, leaving Mary face to face with the young violinist.

"Mary!" said Noel Vertizen. "Mary!"

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

I was in bed Barty doing, get that ... and the wind ... and ... and the snow is still full of ice and this morning when I woke up it had snowed and the ground and roofs were white and Jubilee doesn't want to be in town. A dog is never happy. He thinks he is and I don't blame him so very much. It he had been standing in the window looking the house like I was without half as much show as he has got had on him he would've been sure winter ... some place.

When I had broken out the ashes ... under the fire, and had got the ... in, I and I had went out to milk the cows and feed the whole bunch was there except the Lost Bag of Tripe and the girls, and we were all sore at Barty for falling off the roof before he used the arrow but he said we were crazy in the head if we thought he fell off on purpose, and he took off half of his clothes to show us the scratches all up and down his legs from going through the roof of the car. All at once a girl's voice said, "Oh, isn't he cute!" and just as we looked we saw the door slammed shut so we could not see who it was, and Barty dove a nose dive under a manger and we stood in front of the stall whilst he got his britches on, and then he wouldn't wait for us. His teeth was chattering with the cold, but he climb out of the hose and the alley.

He said no girl couldn't say that to him and get away with it. I sure felt sorry for him, and just as I pulled the board shut after him the voice said again, "Oh, isn't he cute!" and we all jumped and looked around and it was the Lost Bag of Tripe making his voice like a girl's. The bunch jumped for him like he was a rat and they were dogs, all except me. I stayed in the barn so I couldn't be blamed for what happened. He managed to get our kitchen door open, and they all fell onto our kitchen together and was all around my mother sfeet. There was a pan of skim milk on the table my mother had brung out to put in pancakes, and the Lost Bag of Tripe grabbed that and threw it all over them, and shot out through the dining room tipping over my aut and my grandmy hand and looked around and asked me what she wanted. She said "Nothing!" and slammed the door. It was lucky for me that I didn't chase him. And lucky for him, too.

Cleveland Barber Relates His Gratifying Experience With Redwood's Tepee Herb Tonic

Howard F. Mathasz, barber, 7103 Lake Ave., Cleveland, O., was positive that the creaking of the stairs or the slightest noise would ... him wide awake, and then it would be a long while before he could go back to sleep.

REDWOOD

"But I believe that you could fire a cannon over my head now and it wouldn't disturb me," declares Mr. Mathasz in relating the benefits he received from taking Redwood's Tepee Herb Tonic.

"It's a great medicine I can tell you," continues Mr. Mathasz. I had tried several remedies for my nerves and this is the only one that helped me.

"Besides helping my nerves, Redwood's Tepee Herb Tonic also helped my stomach and I don't have attacks of indigestion any more. I used to be very careful what I ate but now I just pitch in and eat whatever my appetite craves.

"My bowels are regular and that is another good feature about Redwood's Tepee Herb Tonic."

"Now! I am right—"

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

"FORTUNATELY, I found myself in time. I was going down! down! down! I didn't want to eat; there was no desire for it. My muscles were getting flabby—I tired easily. Many a morning I would get up after a sleepless night feeling that I could hardly pull through the day. I was also troubled with those annoying so-called skin troubles. Then, one day a friend urged me to give S.S.S. a trial. Before finishing the first bottle, I could see I was improving. That was only a few weeks ago. Today I feel more like myself than I have in years."

Loss of appetite is only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off disease. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red, blood builds and sustains

Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the result of an insufficient supply of red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that nourish and sustain the body.

When you get your red blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again; sleep soundly; solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong; and your nerves become steady.

CALIFORNIA SOON TO HAVE RADIO STATION

Plan Would Be To Bring Government Closer to People of State

Sacramento, Cal., March 1—California may soon blaze the trail for the nation in a new field, the business of government by air.

Creation of a powerful state government radio broadcasting station, the first step in the new venture, has been proposed, it was learned today by International News Service, with a member of Governor Young's official cabinet as sponsor of the plan.

The government super-station, as proposed to the governor and his advisors, would be owned and operated by the state to bring government closer to the people and carry California's message of welcome to the four corners of the earth.

Station in Capitol

In event the plan receives state approval, the great broadcasting station would be located on the top floor of the new Capitol annex building here, according to backers of the project, and it is probable the state would secure its place on the dial by taking over KFBK, the present Sacramento station.

Market reports, released by federal and state cooperative agencies, together with crop forecasts, educational bulletins, news of contemplated highway projects and all government activities affecting a large number of people would be broadcast nightly over the state-controlled super-station.

The station would also be utilized to broadcast California's attractions to the nation and acquaint prospective settlers and industrial groups with the state's advantages.

This would be supplemented, it is planned, by musical programs and other entertainment features.

To remove the only objectionable feature of the proposed enterprise, the station would be conducted on a purely non-partisan basis, with politics being the one subject banned in the entertainment program.

No political addresses, or talks on controversial governmental issues, would be permitted.

Lunch to Cabinet

The first proposal, it became known today, was made at a luncheon of the gubernatorial cabinet by G. H. Hecke, directors of the State Department of Agriculture, who declared that the state could be made of great value to farmers of the state in carrying marketing and crop reporting news now sent out by telegraph.

After the initial expenditure in securing the broadcasting equipment, the station could be maintained at low cost, Hecke advised, as an ideal location is available in the new Capitol building.

New spring wall papers are now in and we are ready to show you our patterns. C. L. Murphey, 126 S. Main St.—Adv.

CONGRESS NOT SO BAD, THEIR REPLY

Question as to What's Wrong with Legislative Bodies Put to Men

Washington, March 1—Congress has been the subject of considerable criticism and the butt of numerous jokes.

It has often been heralded as a menace to everybody, and its constituents are doing legislation cautiously.

The question, "What is wrong with Congress?" was put today to the two men in the House and Senate. They agreed that while Congress isn't all that it is painted up to be in short lectures, it isn't such a bad place after all.

They replied as follows:

Senator Warren, Republican, of Wyoming, who has been in the Senate since 1895: "I think we would have a better Senate if we'd go back to the system of years ago when members were elected by representative bodies of the states through legislatures instead of proceeding through primaries and election by all the people at large."

Representative Cooper, Republican, of Wisconsin, who has served 17 terms in the House—"The House is too large. The larger it becomes the weaker it becomes as a legislative body. Because of its size power is thrown too much in the hands of a few men.

"Another discomforting feature is that there is too much legislation in conference committees in which six or eight men determine the character of legislation."

Senator LaFollette, Republican, of Wisconsin, youngest member of the Senate—"In my judgment one of the most important changes which would improve the situation in Congress would be the passage of the so-called Norris resolution doing away with the participation of lame ducks in legislation, and also providing for the abolition of the short session. The short session results in hasty and ill-conceived legislation and often prevents the passage of necessary legislation. Two sessions of more equal length would afford a complete remedy."

Representative Coudo, Democrat, of Missouri, 28, the baby member of the House—"It is easy to find flaws in any organization, but I believe that both the personnel of Congress and its system of procedure are essentially sound. I think the public would be amazed to find out how business-like its methods are in dealing with national affairs."

CHECK SINCLAIR'S GIFT TO G. O. P. PARTY

Senate Committee Summons New York Attorney To Give Testimony

Washington, March 1—The reported generosity of Harry F. Sinclair toward the Republican National Committee during his possession of the Teapot Dome oil lease was subjected to further inquiry today by the Senate Public Lands Committee.

The committee summoned William Wallace, Jr., New York attorney for William Boyce Thompson, a former finance director of the Republican National Committee, in an effort to learn whether Sinclair gave more than the $75,000 gift already revealed by him. This gift was later shown to have been in bonds once owned by the Continental Trading Co.

According to reports reaching the Senate committee, Sinclair distributed a huge sum in bonds to be used in paying off debts of the Republican National Committee, incurred during the 1920 campaign. These debts were said to have been paid during the 1922 and 1923, while Sinclair was in possession of Teapot Dome and the Senate prepared to investigate his lease.

George Chandler, a Philadelphia attorney, who spent months investigating the Continental company and its bonds, also was called. The Senate committee hoped to get some valuable information from him, relative to distribution of the Continental bonds.

Davis Retains His National Horseshoe Pitching Contest

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 1—Charles Clyde Davis of Indiana, national horseshoe pitching champion, today retained his crown for another year by winning the annual national tournament that ended here last night. With two full games in the finals, Davis clinched the title early in the day.

COMING STARS of the MOVIES

Ethlyne Clair

THE PERFECT movie type is the verdict that a number of prominent screen experts have rendered in the case of Ethlyne Clair, 18-year-old Southern beauty who has attracted wide attention in Hollywood, although she has been in pictures but a comparatively short time.

Ethlyne was born in Talladoga, Ala., and raised in Atlanta. She studied drawing and painting in the National Academy of Fine Arts in Washington, but gave up that work to take a minor role in a photoplay starring the late Barbara LaMarr.

After her beauty was seen on the screen, she didn't suffer from lack of engagements. George Archibaud, noted director, has gone on record as saying that she "has every photographic quality in abundance."

$14,698 COLLECTED IN INHERITANCE TAX

Figures for Last Six Months Shown in Auditor's Semi-Annual Report

Inheritance tax totaling $14,698.10 was collected in Marion County during the last six months, figures in the semi-annual report of County Auditor Earl E. Thomas showed today.

The largest payment was $9,201.23, made in the estate of Mr. Sarah King, widow of George W. King, former president of the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

Nineteen estates are listed in the auditor's report, the tax payments, in addition to the one in the King estate, being as follows:

City of Marion: Mary Caddy, $138.05; George E. Bain, $975.86; Harriett E. Runyan, $80.32; Martha T. Keller, $1,932.90; Henry Monahan, $29.01; Patrick Dwyer, $12.12; Susan H. Kempton, $196.91; Thomas F. Hurley, $50.22; Marion S. Stutesman, $143.70; Howard Brenner, $145.80; Sarah E. Harvey, $1,051.25.

Claridon Township: Lewis H. Britton, $152.07; William W. Ulp, $102.06.

Green Camp Township: Lewis O. Johnson, $7.66.

Tully Township: Franklin Swisher, $131.93; Savilla Swisher, $121.39.

Grand Prairie Township: Samuel Campbell, $15.81.

Caledonia Village: Frank T. Burke, $229.68.

Distribution Made

Distribution of the six months' collection was made from the auditor's office today, as follows:

State of Ohio, $6,475.13, taxing districts where decedents resided, $7,340.05; auditor's fee fund, $140.91; probate judge's fee fund, $286; treasurer's fee fund, $146.98.

Shares credited to the three county officials' fee funds remain in the county treasury for general expenses.

The inheritance tax collection for the same period a year ago amounted to $17,146.15. The settlement at that time was not made until April, which accounts for the amount being considerably larger than the collection just closed.

HEARING PUT BACK

Canton Civil Service Commission Refuses Testimony

Canton, March 1—Further hearing of the Ben Clarke case today had been postponed indefinitely, following refusal of the Civil Service Commission Wednesday to allow introduction of stenographic testimony of Floyd E. Stretenberger and Louis Mazer, two of the men now serving penitentiary sentences in connection with the Don Mellett murder.

Meanwhile attorneys representing the city are making attempts to obtain permission for taking depositions from the pair.

Clarke, former Canton police captain, has been charged by Safety Director Knabell with furnishing Mellett's street address to Stretenberger and Mazer.

COMPROMISE LOOMS

Jones Bill Seen As Basis for Plan Acceptable to All

Washington, March 1—The new Jones flood control bill, authorizing a $325,000,000 fund to protect the Mississippi Valley from future floods, loomed today as the basis for a compromise acceptable to both House and Senate leaders.

The bill would provide for the construction of new high-level levees and spillways to divert future floods under a compromise between the control plans drafted by the army board of engineers and the Mississippi River commission. The states of the flooded area would have to bear a $5,000,000 share of the cost.

M'DANIEL MOTOR CO. OPENS ANNUAL SHOW

More Than 800 Persons Visit Show-Rooms During First Day

Nearly 30 cars in both all models of the Willys-Knight and Whippet lines, The McDaniel Motor Co., 200 W. Center st., opened the annual automobile show. More than 800 persons visited the show room during the day to view the new models.

According to M. L. McDaniel, president of the company, yesterday's turnout was the largest first day crowd [illegible] showing of [illegible] cars.

The entire first floor of the modern garage has been given over to the display. Cars have been so arranged as to display them to the best advantage.

Ferns and palms have been generously used. Southern smilax and wisteria blossoms. Huge vases of cut flowers add to the decorative note.

Among the Willys-Knight cars on display are models of the great, special 4 standard sizes. All models of Whippet fours, including the cabriolet, accented the lowest priced car of this type in the country, also are being exhibited.

In keeping with the trend toward brightness the cars are painted in various colors with blue predominating.

The show will continue through Saturday night according to the program. Tonight special music will be provided by Ruth's Syncopators. Doors of the garage are open from 8 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night.

Cuticura Heals Eczema Over Neck Arms And Hands

FILM SCENE THAT STARTED BIG ROW

Above is a "still" from the motion picture "Dawn," depicting the death of Edith Cavell, British nurse executed by the Germans in Belgium during the World War. German protests against the showing of the picture on the ground that it would only promote ill-feeling between the once enemy nations, have been effective and the English Board of Censors has decided against permitting "Dawn" to be exhibited. The "still" that particularly aroused objections shows an officer ready to shoot Nurse Cavell after she had fainted in front of the firing squad.

The program opened with the singing of "America," in unison, and with prayer by Rev. Irvin Kauffman, pastor of Greenwood Evangelical Church. The following numbers were presented by pupils of the second grade taught by Miss Mary Cook, a recitation, "Who Knows?" by Donald Cook, a recitation "Good Enough," by Karl Lloyd, and a dialogue, "A Big Bug," by Irene Chambers and Donald Hirst. Pupils of the second grade taught by Miss Pearl Dutt were heard in several songs, "When I Am Big," "Soldiers," "The Dairy Maid," and "The Bird's Valentine."

Recitations were given by a number of fifth grade pupils taught by Miss Harriett Christian, a recitation, "Something Better," by Margaret Bush; "Another Washington," Dale Morehart; "I Love My Flag," Robert Thatcher; "A Puzzling Question," Warren Smith; "Makers of Our Nation," Elizabeth Jeffrey; "The Star That Was Lincoln," Eltha Bowers; "Which General?" Robert Williamson; "Betsy Ross," Bernice Smith; "Who Is It?" Rosella Alexander; "In Washington's Time," Victor Croman; "Lincoln," Ruth Anna Radebaugh; "The Name of Lincoln," Claudine Coile; "As Joe Sees It," Stanley Thomas; "What Was the Secret?" Catharine Malo, and "The Stars and Stripes," Lillian Bowers. A song was sung and recitation given by the fifth grade pupils in unison and a dialogue, "I Would Tell," was given by three pupils of the grade, Ralph Watson, Clifford Hirsch, and Paul Staley.

Pupils of the sixth grade presented a part of the program which included two numbers, a violin solo, "School Days" by Eugene Price and a short sketch of Washington given by Pauline Chambers. Miss Stella Myers is the teacher. "Mt. Vernon Bells" was sung by all pupils of the school in closing. The next regular meeting will be held Tuesday night, March 27, at the school.

SOPRANO SOLOIST TO SING AT SCHOOL MEET

Mrs. Florence Shaw Rutherford, soprano soloist at Epworth M. E. Church, will be heard in a group of vocal numbers in an assembly of Harding High School students Friday morning at the school. Roy Arquette, a graduate of the school, will play several piano numbers as a part of the program.

"Konjola Made Me Feel Better Right From the Start," He States

MR. WM. H. CROSS

"Nothing ever helped me more than Konjola and I am glad to indorse such a medicine," said Mr. Wm. H. Cross, 6 East Federal St., Youngstown, Ohio.

"I was in misery half the time due to kidney and liver troubles. My back was always sore and achy and pains that lasted for hours would come over me every day. The whites of my eyes were actually yellow looking. I suffered with severe headaches and dizzy spells. My nerves were in bad shape and I never felt like working.

"Konjola made me feel better right from the start, and I could notice more of an improvement every day. Now my nerves are much stronger, my eyes are clear and the headaches and dizzy spells never come over me any more. I am free of all pains in my back and have more energy to do my work."

Konjola is different than any other known remedy in this section. It contains twenty-two juices extracted from natural plants which invigorate the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels to a more healthy action. The effect of Konjola on the entire system brings amazing relief in cases of suffering that had been going on for years. At the same time many weak and rundown systems have been restored to a new state of health through this compound. Such a vast number of men and women in this city have told of their experience with this new medical product until now Konjola is the most highly indorsed medicine that is known in this vicinity.

Konjola is strongly recommended here in Marion at Stump & Sams Pharmacy and is also being sold by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

People of Marion Will You Let Us Serve You?

Gas men are human beings — just like you. The men of your Gas Company, from the President down, are employes engaged in your service. Many people of Marion are stockholders. It is not a political but a business organization honestly, openly seeking to give a valuable service in a most satisfactory way — and to promote the growth and prosperity of Marion.

We are all vitally interested in a prompt settlement of the Gas rate because it involves civic development and employment.

Fuel is the basis of all industry. Gas is to civic development what fire is to a boiler. Gas must compete with other fuels or lose business and losing business means to the Gas Company just what it means to any business concern or to the worker who loses employment.

There has been much misunderstanding and misrepresentation about the Gas rate matter. Facts have been distorted to serve personal advantage and ambitions. The growth and prosperity of Marion have been subverted. Do you want Marion to advance? Do you want it to offer advantages competitive with other cities?

Gas rates are not so vital as the results of Gas fuel dependability and efficiency. Industry demands this and it is essential to full time employment. Any Gas rate is too high for the man out of work and broke, but a growth permitting rate sustaining business and employment is easy for all. —And politics never supplied the basis for employment.

Your Gas Company is eager to serve and proposes in all fairness a rate of $1.00 for the first 500 cubic feet or any part thereof and 60 cents net per thousand cubic feet thereafter. Will you help settle this matter? Will you give us a chance to develop our service?

GAS IS worth more!

Columbus South and Mt. Vernon Favored At Delaware

MARYSVILLE CHOICE OF CLASS B TEAMS IN CENTRAL SECTION

Basketball Fans Eagerly Await Opening of Sectional Tournaments Friday

Columbus, March 1—Ohio basketball fans are eagerly awaiting the Ohio High School sectional tournaments to be held at various points over the state tomorrow and Saturday.

Winners of the various tourneys will hold a final series of games here the latter part of this month for the Ohio State High School Basketball Championship.

Observers here are picking probable winners in south and central Ohio.

In the central district two teams are mentioned for tournament honors. They are Mt. Vernon High and South High of this city. In class B, Marysville has a strong aggregation, which has defeated most of the B teams and several A schools in that section.

Stepping over into the eastern district, tournament hopes naturally hinge on last year's state champions, Dover High. Dover had a weak team during the fall semester which however rounded out into an aggressive squad during the winter quarter. The team has only one veteran player.

Cambridge High, in the same district, has a veteran team, though it has been defeated by both Marietta and Dover. Zanesville, once state champion, is said to be playing great basketball. Marietta has always had a more than average tournament team.

Nelsonville is said to have the strongest team on this year's record. It is in the southeastern district. Wendel Howell, the center, rated by some observers, as the best in the state. Portsmouth, Athens and Ironton are also given notice, but Athens and Ironton are considered as "dark horses."

The southwestern district is divided into two sections, that of Cincinnati and Dayton.

With one victory and one defeat over Springfield and a 31 to 30 defeat by Libbey of Toledo, Hamilton is probably the best team in the Cincinnati section. And again there are rumors about "dark horses." These rumors are centered about the Middletown aggregation and the team of Elder High at Cincinnati.

In the Dayton district, Stivers High of Dayton is mentioned as "the" team, though it has been defeated by Hamilton and Springfield. Springfield had an exceptional team the first semester but lost its center and guard by mid-year graduation.

Central High School at Xenia has put a team on the floor that is well worth watching. It has been hitting a fast pace the last two months.

Very little is heard about the B teams in this section though Eaton as usual is said to have a strong team.

Every now and then basketball followers mention a heretofore unheard of team. They call 'em "dark horses."

It may be that one of these teams will come through in the sectional tournaments but it is not believed likely that they will figure prominently in the state Finals.

IS HE ANOTHER JIM THORPE?

Take a look at Fait Elkins, full-blooded Iroquois Indian brave from Nebraska, who's being touted by western track followers as another Jim Thorpe. Elkins is now in New York, conditioning to show his all-around ability in the septathlon at the K. of C. games next week.

Olsen Supports Novel Change In Tip-Off Rule

Columbus, March 1—Coach "Sam" Barry, of Iowa, has a supporter for his novel idea to abolish the tip-off in basketball in Coach Harold Olsen, of Ohio State, but with reservations. Barry recently advocated doing away with the tip-off on the ground that a tall center can practically beat a good five-man team when up against a shorter opponent since he controls the ball.

It is a known fact, Olsen observes, that you can't shoot baskets unless you have the ball to do it with. A young giant in the center of the floor has a lot to say about which side gets the chance to shoot, he adds.

But Olsen has one modification to offer for Barry's plan. He points out that the tip-off in basketball resembles the kickoff in football and to eliminate it completely would take not a little glamour from the game. Olsen would, therefore, keep the tip-off at the start of each half.

All other plays following a goal or a successful free throw he would then start either from under the goal of the team just scored upon or from the side of the playing floor at the middle. If thrown into play from under the goal, it would be given to the team that had just been scored on, thereby putting it on the offensive at once.

If thrown in from the side, the other alternative, the ball could either be given to the team just scored on or the privilege of passing in could alternate. Thus one and then the other squad would get the chance to start the fireworks.

Such a plan, it is pointed out, would do away with the supremacy that some teams enjoy, not because of skill, but simply because they are fortunate in having a center who can control the ball.

The new method would develop team play to an even greater extent than now, it is claimed. Moreover, Olsen observes, there is far more opportunity for a coach to work out intricate plays from the out-of-bounds thrown in than from the tip-off.

The idea is sufficiently novel, it is believed here, to merit consideration and also offers a common sense solution to the handicap a good team without a tall center must face.

Consequences are applied that fools carry their terrible consequences quite apart from any fixed rule that went before.—George Eliot.

y Can't Beat 'em

By Frank G. Menke

This is the third of a series of articles by Frank G. Menke which reveal the inner works of the bookmaking game and which are intended to show players why it is impossible for constant gamblers to beat the races. (Editor's Note.)

Another scheme which one "handbook" man uses on the New York tracks to accomplish profit by tipping through the use of the "sucker" system calls for a small gamble on the part of the "handbook" man but a small one nevertheless. He uses 99 times out of 100. And there hardly is a gambling proposition.

A "sucker" who couldn't get to the track sent $2,000 to the "handbook" man to be wagered, $1,000 first, and $1,000 second on a horse. The "handbook" man quoted the odds at 10 to 1 against the winning chance of the horse and 4 to 1 that he wouldn't run as well as second. If the "sucker" had gone to the track and made his own bet there he would have received $10,000 against $1,000 on the winning chances of the horse and $4,000 against $1,000 on the second place chance.

The "handbook" man, after a careful study of the situation concluded that the horse would not run better than second so he decided upon his "gamble." He instructed his partner at the track to bet the entire $2,000 on the horse to come second at odds of 4 to 1, getting $8,000 against the $2,000—and nothing at all on the horse to win.

When that was done, it was up to the partner to get busy at the track and pound down the price. For it can be seen that if the odds held up, the "handbook" man was in for a loss if the horse won, inasmuch as he would have collected only $8,000 to pay off the $14,000 that would be due the player if the horse won and closing odds remained at 10 to 1 against the winning, and 4 to 1 against his finishing second or better.

Pass Out Tips

The partner of the "handbook" man, as soon as he secured the bet of $8,000 against his $2,000, proceeded to pass out a stout tip on that horse all around the track. He handed it to everybody within sound of his voice. The race tracks are loaded with people who live by tips—and play them. The stronger the tip, the heavier the play. Naturally, a heavy play on any 10 to 1 shot quickly will drive down the odds.

To swing the play to that particular horse, he may pass out false information concerning the other horses in the race; he may whisper that the favorite in the race is sick, that the second choice is sore or lame—or think up some other idea that will discount the chances of the other horses and swing the play to the horse he wants played so as to depress the odds.

Odds Take Drop

If the "tipping" is performed in cunning fashion, it usually results in the public backing the 10 to 1 shot so enthusiastically that his odds will drop precipitately. In this instance, the odds of the horse dropped to 5 to 1 to win and 8 to 5 for place—which were the closing odds quoted the next day in the "payoff" papers.

Three things could have happened to that particular horse in that race: (a) he could win, (b) he could land second honors, (c) he could fail to run first or second.

(1) If the horse had not run first or second, the "sucker" was out his $2,000 and the "handbook" man would break even, because the $2,000 he lost on his bet at the track, was offset by the $2,000 he got from the "sucker."

(2) If the horse won, this is what happens: The "Sucker" is paid at the CLOSING ODDS, meaning he wins $5,000 at 6 to 1 on the nose, and $1,600 at 8 to 5 for place—a total winning of $6,600 for him. The "handbook" man, having bet $2,000 on place at 4 to 1, collects $8,000 from the track bookmaker, pays the player that $6,600—and pockets $1,600 as clear profit.

(3) If the horse ran second, the transaction was this: The "handbook" man collects $8,000 winnings from the track bookmaker. He credits the player with a profit of $1,000 on his second place bet of $1,000 at 8 to 5 and then charges him with a loss of $1,000 on the "nose" bet. Result is that player wins only $600 net on the race and the "handbook" man pockets the $7,400 difference.

The latter instance came to pass. The horse ran second—beaten by the favorite. The player won a net of $600 and the "handbook" man won $7,400—through adroit handling of the player's money and spreading of a wild "tip."

Training Camp Briefs

"MOORE GANG"

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Mar. 1—The New York Yankees some day may be known as "the Moore gang." Two of the five Moore brothers, Wiley and Nick, alias Newt, are already with the Yankees, and Manager Huggins has his eye on three others. The three younger ones are Edgar, 20, Dewey, 17, and Lee, 15.

A new rival to Ruth and Gehrig has appeared in the person of Dusty Cooke, a rookie who yesterday equalled Gehrig's feat of parking the ball in a lake outside the training camp of the world's champions here.

GRIND TO START

AUGUSTA, Ga., Mar. 1—The training camp grind begins today for the New York Giants, following the arrival of the battery men from Hot Springs, Ark. Jack Cummings, substitute backstop, has developed a sore arm on the heels of the release of catcher Zack Taylor to Boston, and John McGraw was somewhat worried today about his catching staff.

BANCROFT IS EARLY

Clearwater, Fla., Mar. 1—Lured by the balmy air and the crack of the bat, shortstop Dave Bancroft has started training with the Brooklyn Robins a week earlier than he intended. The former pilot of the Braves was in great shape and said he was happy to be rid of managerial cares, particularly the task of "riding" his men.

Manager Robinson threatens to ask for waivers on Jigger Statz, who thinks he should get a bonus if he hits .300 this season, an unusual feat for a Brooklyn player.

NEHF MEETING WITH FAVOR

CATALINA ISLAND, Cal., March 1—Art Nehf, the 35-year-old southpaw veteran of three major league clubs, has taken the eye of his new boss, Joe McCarthy of the Cubs. Boss Joe is convinced there is still lots of pitching in Art's good left arm. Nehf is displaying some well controlled curves and a world of speed. Bill Maugham, a young hurler who tried out last year with Cleveland, is also being given the once over by McCarthy.

CISSELL INSURED

SHREVEPORT, La., March 1—The Chicago White Sox, under the direction of Manager Ray "Cracker" Schalk, were open for business at the old stand today. The troupe checked in here yesterday to begin the spring training grind. The first sensation was sprung when it was announced that Bill Cissell, the new $12,500 beauty, had been insured for $100,000 against accidents and loss of life.

GOOD WEATHER

NEW ORLEANS, March 1—With continued good weather, the Cleveland Indians are speeding up their workouts—batting, fielding and batting practice. Southern Belle Baseball is attracting favorable comment due to its gilt edged control of pitching corps.

Coach Howard Shanks and Pitcher "Gob" Brenzel are slowly recovering from severe colds. Brenzel was getting into a uniform today in preparation for Shanks will be out of bed for several days, it was said.

HARRIS IN CHARGE

TAMPA, Fla., March 1—Manager Bucky Harris arrived here today to take charge of the Nat clubs training activities. All the Nats have now reported except Joe Judge, Muddy Ruel and Tommy Taylor.

MAY CLOSE MATCH

New York, March 1—Eddie Kane, manager of Sammy Mandell, may close a match today between the lightweight champion and Jimmy McLarnin, California star. Whether the bout will be held under the promotion of Jim Mullen, of Chicago, or Tex Rickard of New York, remains in doubt, however, as the managers of the two promoters went into a huddle.

New York, March 1—...weight ... are facing ... to eliminate one of ... principals ... set ... as ... in ... of ... of both or neither will be left with ... at Madison ... Garden tonight. Jack Delaney, the ... and Tom Heeney, the ... but ... foreign specimen from New Zealand, will meet in a 10-round fight and there are only two reasons why anybody should care either way at the other.

Named in the order of their importance, those reasons are that there may be as much as $150,000 in the house at the pay-out and that the winner may be in there with Tunney for the championship of the world within a matter of a few months.

Does, do the wheezers of five years ago their bizarre antics. Less than four months ago, they were saying that Delaney was all washed up like the back of a neck. He had resigned to the light heavyweight championship and, in his first start in the class above, he blew a decision to Johnny Risko. Also his manager, Pete Reilly, saw fit to sell him to Joe Jacobs for $50,000, which of course is a lot of money even if Mr. Jacobs never has it. The point is, however, that you don't sell a man whom you think is about to figure in a heavyweight championship transaction.

But that happens to be one of the possibilities in Delaney's case, for he rates a shade's favorite to beat Heeney and, once this is accomplished, he needs must only in case of the Stanley-Risko survivor to stand alone as of official challenger. This state of affairs exists that ... Delaney ... about through ... knockouts ... Bethlehem ... Pete Latzo ... Sally Montgomery ... Humbeck, Leo ... Gates and kindred ...

Legion Rally Speakers Stress Service To Community in Talks

300 EX-SERVICE MEN AT MEET

George E. Denny, Ohio Commander, Is Principal Speaker

Kenton, March 1—Service to the community, state and nation in times of peace and the building and maintenance of a staunch citizenship, were stressed as the leading obligations of the American Legion and other veterans' organizations by speakers in addresses before more than 300 ex service men attending the Northwest Ohio district legion rally and banquet in Elks home here Wednesday night.

Principal speakers were George E. Denny, Middletown, Ohio commander of the American Legion, Judge Edward S. Matthias, Columbus, member of the supreme court and commander of the Ohio department, U. S. W. V., Frazier Reams, Toledo, Northwest legion district committeeman, and Hon. Ralph D. Cole, Findlay.

Other Guests

Other guests of honor were: General Chauncy B. Baker, Columbus, and Milo Warner, Toledo, Ohio representative on the National Legion executive committee, both past commanders of the Ohio Legion, and J. J. Sackaveky, state legion adjutant.

Want Adequate Defense

Declaring that adequate defense is the greatest insurance policy against war, Commander Denny said the Legion fosters plans for adequate national defense which goes hand in hand with peace. "The Legion wants the passage of the naval program of defense as placed in the hands of congress by the government and is opposed to any cuts as recommended by the committee," he said.

District Chairman Reams flayed the idea that the Legion is political or militaristic or that it is an organization of debauchees.

Entertainers from the Ohio Northern University, directed by Mike Mazzulla, director of the Northern All-Ohio Conference band, also appeared on the program in charge of Carl W. Smith, past commander of Kenton post, as toastmaster. Movies of the annual national legion convention in Paris last year, were shown under the direction of Prof. E. R. Tam, Kenton.

Among the honored guests at the rally were veterans of the Civil and Spanish-American wars. Co-operation which now exists between the veteran groups toward their common welfare and advancement was lauded by the speakers.

CHRYSLERS WIN

Upper Sandusky Team Defeats Kenton Night Hawks

Upper Sandusky, March 1—A speedier combination of passing coupled with well-aimed basket dropping made victory easy for Neates Chryslers in their game with the Night Hawks, colored team of Kenton at the "Y" gymnasium last night. The score ended 41 to 23, in favor of Upper.

Starting with all the ear marks of a slow moving defensive game on both sides, the Penry-Applegett combination soon broke into whirlwind action leaving Kenton trailing as the locals netted basket after basket. Kenton was forced to try long shots, back shots all of which seemed "hoodooed" as the ball time and again rode around the rim only to topple from the edge. The playing of Kenton's center, Raymond Brown, showed the best action on the visitors' team.

Between halves, Worthington, clever Charleston and Black Bottom dancer on the Kenton team entertained. Hopkins, of Marion, refereed.

The Kenton line-up was Hatchcock and D. Brown, forwards; R. Brown as center, Douglas, Gaines and Chaines, guards. The Upper team used, Applegett and Penry, forwards, Kirchner and Blazer, center, Raabe and Naus, guards.

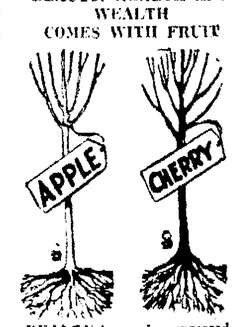
BEAUTY, HEALTH AND WEALTH COMES WITH FRUIT



BEAUTY is surely expressed by well formed fruit trees, in the form of shade and the coloring of the fruit. Hence, the National flower of Japan is the Cherry.

HEALTH—All doctors are unanimous in prescribing fruit to eat.

WEALTH comes as a result of careful planning and planting the right varieties. Let us talk it over.

New Hair Style Rage in New York

"Wherever you go in New York now, you are sure to hear girls talking about the new way thousands of them are doing their hair to keep it in place and make it soft, lustrous and beautiful," says Miss Theresa Kloss, 7130 72nd Place, Glendale, New York City. "I have hardly any time to give my hair. So this new style just suits me. All your do is put a few dashes of Danderine on your brush every time you use it. The first few applications get rid of all my dandruff, and every time it gives a new sparkle and life to my hair that makes everyone admire it. It keeps your hair in place, too, just like you arrange it."

Every application of Danderine refreshes your scalp and invigorates your hair. It removes the oily film and makes every strand gleam with new lustre. Dandruff disappears when you use Danderine. Waves "set" with it stay in longer. It's neither sticky nor oily. All drug stores have the generous 50c bottles. A fragrant necessity for the well-groomed girl.—Adv.

HERE'S THAT FUELLESS MOTOR

Lester J. Hendershot and fuelless plane.

QUITE a jolt was given the whole wide world when it became known that a Pittsburgh inventor, Lester J. Hendershot had brought out what is claimed to be the first motor to ever run without fuel of any kind.

And when the news followed that no less a celebrity than Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh had become keenly interested in the invention, everybody started to sit up and take notice.

The accompanying photo is the first ever made of the airplane which is said to carry this new motor, which, if plans go according to expectations, may well revolutionize all automotive industries.

According to what little can be learned—for the few vitally concerned with the project are keeping as mum as the proverbial oysters—the device is still in the experimental stage. But Lindbergh's interest may betoken the fact that the inventor and his friends are just a little bit modest about it.

Hendershot is a free lance inventor who has perfected a number of electrical appliances and who some time ago became absorbed in motor problems.

The motor of the plane is said to develop electric energy from the air with the aid of what is called a "free energy generator." And that's all that can be found out about it.
